

Artist's Statement on "Hands, Trophies or Tools?"

Are hands a testament to the artist's power to shape the world, or do they bear the weight of commodification and constraint? This series explores the duality of hands—both as tools of expression and as relics of fragmentation.

Are they bound by the systems that claim them?
